

pigeons and bass, once filled the drainages of the Fall Creek valley.

Native Americans found their way into this region at least 8,000 years ago and developed lifestyles that we celebrate today. Euro-American settlers moved from Kentucky and Ohio, establishing the first homesteads in the 1820s. They cleared the woodlands to make way for an agricultural economy.

The creation of the military post came about due to the changing face of the state and nation. During the Civil War, the Indianapolis Arsenal supplied munitions to federal troops. Located near the State House from 1861 to 1865, the War Department later moved the arsenal east of downtown to Woodruff Place. By 1901, as the city grew, the War Department planned to close the arsenal.

Many community members felt strongly that some military presence should remain in the city to honor the tradition the arsenal played in ending slavery and maintaining the Union. Lt. Col. Russell Harrison, son of deceased President Benjamin Harrison, suggested naming any remaining military facility in honor of his father.

On June 28, 1904, the War Department issued General Order No. 117, officially announcing the purchase of land for "military purposes...about nine miles northeasterly from Indianapolis." In 1906, President Theodore Roosevelt dedicated Fort Benjamin Harrison in honor of the 23rd president and Indianapolis resident.

On a national scale, the fort represented the first effort to create a national army out of a collection of state militias. The post served multiple roles as a troop reception center, classroom and soldier support facility during all major military conflicts from WWI to Desert Storm. Today, Fort Harrison State Park continues to preserve the greenspace that the Army kept out of development from 1903-1996. Today, you can experience forests and meadows, wildlife and revealing glimpses into our past.

DESCRIPTION OF HIKING TRAILS

TRAIL & DESCRIPTION	DISTANCE	DIFFICULTY
Fall Creek Trail	1.3 miles	Moderate

1.1 miles from start to Duck Pond. Start this trail at the northeast corner of the Delaware Lake picnic area. The trail follows the lowlands along Fall Creek, then heads uphill as it nears Duck Pond. Overall distance can be shortened or varied by taking one of the three cutoff trails that connect to the Harrison Trace. Excellent for birding, fishing access, and wildflower and tree identification.

Camp Creek Trail	2 miles	Moderate
-------------------------	---------	----------

Trail begins off Harrison Trace near the eastern banks of Delaware Lake with the apex of the bend passing Duck Pond. This trail passes by an old army rubble pile and contains many beautiful vistas from the bluffs of the quaint Camp Creek valley.

Harrison Trace	3.4 miles	Easy

This is an asphalt surface trail for walkers, bicyclists and joggers. The trail begins at the Delaware Lake picnic area. After passing Delaware Lake, the trail follows the rolling upland above Fall Creek. Although the trail is graded and paved, it is not flat. Much of the trail is tree-covered and wildflowers grow next to the walking surface all season long. This is the easiest route to Duck Pond.

Lawrence Creek Trail	4.3 miles	Moderate

New entrance. The trail winds through upland woods and ravines. This is an excellent choice for observing fall color. Northern sections of the trail tend to remain wet all summer, providing a wonderful wildflower show. This is a single-track, multi-use, hike and bike trail. Bikers yield to hikers.

Tree Line Trail	1 miles	Easy
------------------------	---------	------

This mowed trail follows the outer edge of Millenium Grove picnic area in Camp Glenn. Look for different species of trees and wildflowers along the route.

Schoen Creek Trail	3.3 miles	Moderate
---------------------------	-----------	----------

Begin at the Schoen Creek Trailhead east of the saddle barn. Follow the trail through wetlands, prairie grasses, woods and ravines. This is a single-track, multi-use, hike and bike trail.

PLEASE STAY ON MARKED TRAILS.
